

Coaching and Development Planning

Unlock potential, unleash performance, and accelerate development

Invest In Your Employees

Coaching in the workplace can be defined as one person guiding another through a process that ultimately leads to performance enhancement. Coaching skills include effective feedback, understanding your colleague's strengths, reinforcing positive behaviour, utilizing innovative ways of listening, and being aware of how to measure coaching success. This training program covers it all in four dynamic lessons, with a sharp focus on skill-building and modeling techniques that will enable coaches to move their teams to the next level of professional development.

Training Objectives and Outcomes

- Identify the differences between coaching, management and mentoring and know when to use which
- Determine the characteristics of a good coach
- Identify the elements of a good coaching session in order to implement them
- Establish the importance of communication in the coaching process
- Understand the feedback model of constructive and reinforcing feedback
- Understand Ken Blanchard's Situational Leadership model and how to apply it in your work environment

Giving you and your team the performance edge

18918 Clark Graham Avenue,
Second Floor
Bai D'Urfe, QC, H9X 3R8
T: 1-855-566-4827