

Helping Hands

Philanthropic Teambuilding Session

More than Just a Teambuilding Program

Employee engagement drives productivity and business results. Helping Hands is Bromelin's philanthropic employee engagement and team building program. It is a 3-hour session, led by an experienced HR professional that marries team, engagement and social responsibility in a fun and unforgettable experience! In groups of 3, participants will build a prosthetic hand that will be sent to one of 60 countries and given to an amputee in need. We connect their experience to the bigger picture of the department or the organization – the feedback from this program is incredible.

Teambuilding Objectives and Outcomes

- Changing lives through the potential of your hands, heads and hearts to build a better team, organization and world
- Learning about social responsibility, collaboration, quality, and commitment
- Having an unforgettable experience with your team that connects to who you are, where you are going, and how you will get there

Giving you and your team the performance edge
